

Poem for Global Day of Parents

Parents, My World

Sanibonani, the best parents in the world,
Hear this poem from your young boys and girls.

You have beautiful hearts, the size of mansions;
You tell me I'm beautiful, you tell me I'm handsome.

Said to me, "Don't talk to strangers!"
And call 10111 if I'm in danger.

Look at the R50 Papa gave me for spending;
Mama said I should put it away for saving.

Daddy buys me games, Mommy lets me play;
When we go to the shop, anything I Pick, they Pay.
